"Memories in our Hearts"

Thinking of the memories, it makes me so sad,
There is nothing we can do, God wanted our dad.
The time has come to let him go,
Our Dad, our friend, we love you so!!!

Your memory will live on
Deep in our hearts, our family is strong
And we will never part.
Last night, I cried so hard by your bed,
It can't be true, were the thoughts in my head.
Then Mom came in as strong as can be,
And said, Mijo, it's gonna be ok,
As she put her arms around me.
She told me you said, I have a big heart,
And would keep his family together,
He knew in his heart. You said you were proud of me,
And that my life was complete, with the blessing
Of my daughter, you stood here to meet
Memories of Papo will be told, time after time,
I wish we had the chance to do it all one more time.
P-Joe
We love you Dad!

“ It does not seem like long ago that our lives were forever changed. We grew accustomed to seeing you at home in your hospital bed, never facing the reality that you would leave this life on Earth. While one year ago the days seemed long, just watching you sleep; today we would give anything just to have you here with us. It seems as though it were just yesterday as I held your hand, when I saw you take your last breath and I realized this was the end. I prayed for your new journey to begin at Heaven's gates, I prayed for your suffering to end and for there to be no more pain, Susan and I told you it was okay to go and everyone would be okay. But since that day life has never been the same - yes, life goes on, the world doesn't stop turning, but it hurts many people that you're not here. Not many words can comfort those who grieve, but I hope we find the faith in God that we need to carry on. I pray we strive to make you proud, to carry on your family name, to understand that God takes the best to his everlasting promise land. We remember you today, one year later.

“ Just been thinking about you a lot lately. I keep getting flash backs of that evening when I was holding your hand as you took your last breath. Still seems so unreal still. Hard to accept that my children don't have their grandfather, and Nathan hurts to have have you here. I don't understand & probably never will. We miss you Joe. We all miss you so very much.

“ As time passes, it does not get any easier. I find myself thinking about all of the memories we have as family and with the holidays near, how could it ever be the same? Some days it seems like none of this is real. I keep thinking when I go to the house that you will be making us tortillas or sitting on your chair in the kitchen. We miss our breakfast drop ins, our late nights at your house, and your company. Yes, life does go on, but where do we begin & how? Life will go on but it won't ever be the same. We sure do miss you

“ There was never a time when I would run into you and your wife that both of you always greeted with a smile and a positive remark. Always treated us like family, you will be missed by many especially by Aggie and Kevin and many others. Our prayer's are with your family but you have a really strong wife and she will keep it together. God Bless and may the good Lord wrap his arms around the family in this time of need.
