" How Hard This is "
Accepting that My Father is Gone
(I can't) Remember he's in a better place
(Doesn't ease this pain)
Don't cry,
Your Father wouldn't want to see you this way.
(But these tears won't stop !)
Now he's with God and there Is no more suffering.
(So why do I hurt so much ?)
I keep hearing, " stay strong life goes on. "
(Well I feel weak and don't care about tomorrow !)
I'm so full of anger, hurt, and regret.
(Not given the chance to say goodbye, something I'll never forget)
I can't, won't, and don't want to let you go !
(Hell, I don't even know how) Dad I will forever love you, honor, cherish, respect, and remember the awesome Father you are !

(You'll forever be my everything, forever my shining star !)

I love you, more than words can express !

Michelle

" Padrino"

To my nino Lindy

*God please stop the time
pause it and rewind
I have to let these feelings out
For my Godfather whos been in mind
I cant help but to think back of when I was a kid You brightened up my life with the little that you did I knew how much you loved me though I only saw you once a year But even that was enough to fill my heart with cheer
I always had love for you in a special kind of way cause without our yearly visits it wouldn't be Christmas day
You came into my life in away that's still unknown, but I know I had your heart cause that you have ALWAYS shown!
Thank you for all the love you gave and the happiness it brought GOD only knows that to ME YOU MEANT ALOT!!!*

*I LOVE YOU NINO.

“ I played softball with Lindy in 1977 and against him from 78-84. The one game that stands out and really needs to be shared with his kids is what a good hitter he was. The year was 1978 at the wool bowl softball complex. He was playing with Leo's Upholstery (I think) and I was pitching and coaching the Coca Cola team. The bases were loaded and one of his teammates yells " Lindy, a case of beer if you hit it out!" I pitched a high ball and as Lindy swings he yells out " SCHILTZ!!" He knocked a grand slam that traveled at least 375 feet. I didn't appreciate it then but as the years went by, that homer is one I will never forget.
My condolences to his kids and wife.
