The love for you I had was unconditional
All the teachings you left me
Gone from this world
Far from what these eyes can see
A Friend, a Mother too many
We weren't ready to let you go
Our best friend who kept us together
Sitting there watching life flow
Our hearts are broken but we know
You're with God now
Truly letting your love show
With others we gave our hearts to
Waiting to welcome us all back home
One last word that we could muster
To love, to cherish to give again
The things you gave us were so true
My heart and soul is strong because of you
I won't fail you because you never did
You stood by me when we were kids
Held my hand and loved me like no other
Not once did you make me feel like a bother
You accepted me and always gave
How do you thank the one who made you brave
Everything you did you put your life into
Even in the end you stood tall
Holding onto the things you loved as God called
He chose to take you from us that fateful day
None of us ready to say goodbye
Our time so short like the bat of an eye
