“ A few years ago, I often played pool with Doc. Although, I was more skilled, he was tenacious and hard to beat. I knew he picked guitar and asked for pointers. He said " spend as much time on the guitar as you do on pool and you will get better" Straight answer from an honest man. Thanks to his advice, which I followed, I have improved.

I am reminded of the Tom T Hall song, "I remember the year Clayton Delaney died"

One of the verses is " I bet the good Lord loves a little pickin too" I bet, that Doc and his brother are twanging and bending the strings right now.

RIP Doc Gray
